June Bascom, M.Ed. - Project Director
Rosemary Drabing, M.S.W. - Survey administration and data entry.
Janet Bramley, Ph.D. - Data analysis and report preparation.

FOREWORD

We at the Division of Disability and Aging Services are committed to quality improvement. We continually monitor, and seek ways we can improve, the developmental services provided here in Vermont. A critical component of that quality improvement effort is input from the people we serve. Our first statewide in-depth consumer surveys took place in 1995 using a questionnaire originally developed by Drs Susan Culbert and Sara Burchard from the Psychology Department at the University of Vermont. Over time, this questionnaire has been revised and enhanced on the basis of findings from the surveys and in consultation with our consumer advocates. The information from the surveys has not only helped us to develop a profile of the people we serve, but to better understand what people feel is important to their quality of life and how we can provide the best support possible.

This report contains findings from the third year in the fourth 3-year cycle of surveys. Each year, we include consumers from a subset of the agencies in Vermont who provide developmental services. This subset is selected to be representative of the whole state in any given year. So that you can see how opinion has changed over time, this report also includes comparisons with the statewide responses from the last completed cycle of surveys. In addition, in keeping with our efforts for continuing improvement, new information has been added to this cycle of surveys on how people are able to get to places that are beyond walking distance, and on barriers that may prevent them from participating in more community activities and enjoyment.

We hope you find this both informative and helpful.

SECTION 1

OVERVIEW

INTRODUCTION

The spring of 2010 marked the third year in the fourth 3-year cycle of satisfaction surveys of adults with developmental disabilities served by the State of Vermont Division of Disability and Aging Services. The agencies surveyed this year were: Health Care and Rehabilitation Services of Southeastern Vermont (HCRS), Lincoln Street Incorporated (LSI), Rutland Mental Health Services – Community Access Program (RMHS), Specialized Community Care (SCC) and United Counseling Service (UCS). As in the past, respondent selection is designed to be representative both within each agency and across the statewide population of consumers. It should be noted that the order in which agencies are visited has changed for this survey cycle, partly due to demographic changes since the inception of these surveys, and partly to make the scheduling and completion of the interview process more efficient. A consequence of this change is that some of the agencies visited this year will not have participated in the equivalent year in the last survey (2006). For this reason, the statewide report compares the responses from this year's interviews to consumer responses from all agencies over the last completed survey cycle (2004 – 2006) to give a fair reflection of overall change over time. Individual agency reports will continue as before to contain comparisons with the responses from the year that particular agency was last visited.

The evolution of the demographic and satisfaction surveys from their original form in 1995 reflects the Division's commitment to continuous quality improvement and its mission to better understand and respond to the needs and wishes of people served by Vermont's developmental service agencies. For example, the survey cycle started in 2001 included more demographic information and added survey questions on self-determination based on input from self-advocates. The last cycle starting in 2004 expanded further on demographics and included substantial changes and additions to the survey report presentation format. This latest round of surveys starting in 2008 features changes based on input from a range of stakeholders; information on access and barriers to community activities has been added and a number of questions have been rephrased for easier understanding. As before, the reports consist of four major Sections:

- Overview: This Section provides a brief stand-alone summary of findings for spring 2010. It gives a basic description of the interviews, a brief profile of the respondents, and how they rate their satisfaction in a range of life domains. For comparison purposes, information about respondents participating in the 2004 – 2006 cycle is also included.
- Consumer Survey 2010 - What People Had To Say. This Section provides more detail on how people responded to individual questions on the survey. It first gives comparison information from the 2004 – 2006 survey cycle and 2010 on selected questions within the life domains. Further detail on domain scores is then given. The final part of this Section includes the full set of responses to the 2010 survey questions.
- Participant Profile 2010 - Who Participated. This Section reports on findings from the demographics survey to provide a clear picture of the consumer population served. Each table includes numbers for those interviewed and those not interviewed.

- Methodology - How This Survey Is Conducted. This Section describes the procedures for collecting survey information and how that information is analyzed for reporting purposes.

SUMMARY OF FINDINGS: STATE OF VERMONT 2010

In the spring of 2010, the independently contracted survey team visited five agencies: Health Care and Rehabilitation Services of Southeastern Vermont (HCRS), Lincoln Street Incorporated (LSI), Rutland Mental Health Services – Community Access Program (RMHS), Specialized Community Care (SCC) and United Counseling Service (UCS). 100% of those who are able to respond to the survey at smaller agencies (LSI and SCC) and 50% of those at the larger designated agencies were invited to be interviewed. Interview times were a little longer than in earlier surveys, taking an average of 36 minutes to complete in 2010 and 31 minutes in 2004 – 2006. As can be seen from Table 1.1, the response rates for 2010 varied widely across agencies averaging slightly higher than the statewide rate for 2004 – 2006 (in parentheses).

In order to be able to draw valid comparisons between findings at the state and local level it is important that the profile of those giving their opinions about life satisfaction is broadly the same. Table 1.2 compares some of the main demographic characteristics of the people surveyed in 2004 – 2006 and 2010.

* In Provider Home, Group Living, or Staffed Living

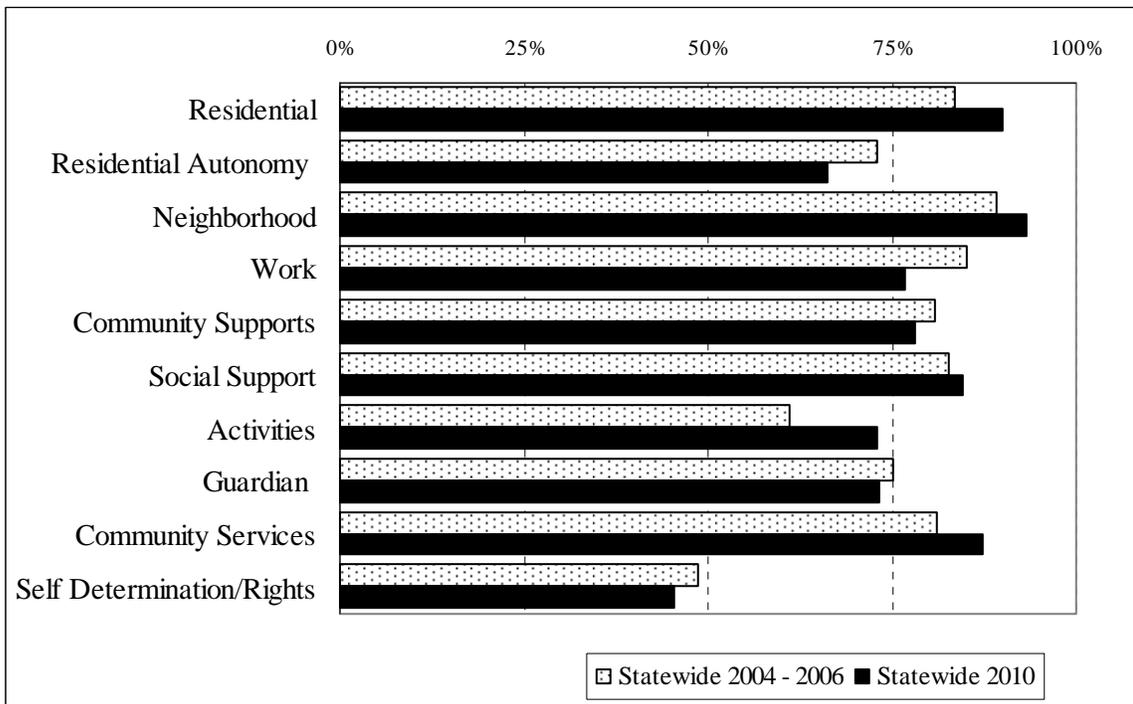

In general the profiles are similar. In comparison with those interviewed in 2004 – 2006, more people interviewed in 2010 live in developmental homes and fewer live in their own homes. Service records for 2010 show a somewhat higher percentage of interviewees receiving residential and family support services than their peers in 2004 – 2006.

The analysis of responses to the consumer survey involves grouping responses into scales reflecting a series of life satisfaction domains (Table 1.3). While the revisions to the survey necessitated some regrouping of responses for the scales, the domains examined remain the same as for the previous survey cycle. The ratings for all but one of the domains are directly comparable to previous years. Response options for questions relating to participation in activities have been changed to help providers see what activities consumers would like more opportunities to enjoy or would rather not participate in at all. The effect of this has been to increase the overall Activities satisfaction rating. This is further discussed on page 12.

The 2010 results indicate similar levels of satisfaction within six of the domains when compared to the 2004-2006 cycle of surveys, and marked differences in four domains. The changes appear to reflect some general trends across the agencies participating in the 2010 survey. Substantial increases in satisfaction were found in the Residential and Community Services domains and decreases in the Residential Autonomy and Work domains. The apparent increase in satisfaction with Activities is due, at least in part, to increased response options available for Activity satisfaction questions.

SECTION 2

WHAT PEOPLE HAD TO SAY

This Section focuses on how people responded to the consumer survey in 2010. The method used for collecting survey data is designed to obtain feedback that is broadly representative of consumer opinion statewide each year. In each of the years since 2001, this has been done by interviewing a random selection of consumers from a sampling of agencies based on agency size and regional representation. Since the order of visiting agencies has been revised to better reflect the demographic composition of the consumer base in Vermont, the selected highlights also include comparative statewide responses from all of the 2004 - 2006 surveys rather than the equivalent year from that cycle. A brief profile of the adults who were interviewed is given in Section 1 and full demographic information on all survey participants for 2010 is available in Section 4.

CONSUMER RESPONSE HIGHLIGHTS

Each of the tables below highlights responses that illustrate trends in a given satisfaction domain. For comparison purposes, the tables include the responses of all people interviewed statewide in the period 2004 – 2006 and 2010. The columns show the percentage of respondents whose response agreed with each statement. For full details of how the participants responded to the full set of survey questions in 2010, see page 14.

DOMAIN SATISFACTION

In order to obtain a better overall picture of what people who receive our services think, the responses to survey questions are grouped to reflect a range of life satisfaction domains. Due to some item changes in the survey instrument for the 2008 – 2010, there have been some minor changes to the construction of the life domain scales. However, the domains examined remain the same as in the last survey cycle. The ratings for all but one of the domains are directly comparable to previous years. Questions relating to participation in Activities have been changed to allow three rather than just two response options. This will help providers not only see which activities consumers feel they do enough, but also which activities they would like more opportunities to enjoy, or would rather not participate in at all. The effect of this has been to increase the overall Activities satisfaction rating. The questions used to analyze each domain are listed in Section 4.

In the first instance, domain satisfaction was examined across everyone who was interviewed in 2010 and 2004 – 2006. Table 2.11 shows similar levels of satisfaction within six of the domains when compared to the 2004-2006 cycle of surveys, and considerable differences in four domains. The changes appear to reflect some general trends across the agencies participating in the 2010 survey. The 2010 respondents gave higher ratings in the Residential and Community Services domains and lower ratings in the Residential Autonomy and Work domains. The apparent increase in satisfaction with Activities is due, at least in part, to increased response options available for Activity satisfaction questions.

Table 2.11 - Comparative Domain Satisfaction

Domain	Statewide 2004 - 2006 (N=475)	Statewide 2010 (N=169)
Residential	84%	90%
Residential Autonomy	73%	66%
Neighborhood	89%	93%
Work	85%	77%
Community Supports	81%	78%
Social Support	83%	85%
Activities	61%	73%
Guardian	75%	73%
Community Services	81%	87%
Self Determination/Rights	49%	45%

When further analyses of domain satisfaction by respondent characteristics were completed, significant differences were found in two domains: Residential Autonomy and Self Determination/Rights. When domain satisfaction was examined by the types of home setting, it was found that people who lived independently rated their Residential Autonomy and Self Determination/Rights significantly higher than those who lived in other residential settings (Table 2.12). Residential Autonomy ratings given by people living in family homes were also significantly higher than those given by people living in provider homes. No statistically significant differences were found in the other domains by residential type. Similarly, examination of Community Support satisfaction by type of support (individual or group) and Guardian satisfaction by type of guardian showed no significant differences.

 People living with their families rated Residential Autonomy higher (p<.05) than those in provider homes
 People living semi-independently rated Community Activities higher (p<.05) than those in provider homes

SURVEY RESPONSES, 2010: STATEWIDE (N=169)

The following pages provide details of how people across the participating agencies responded to individual questions on the Consumer Survey in the spring of 2010. The percentages given in the results below are the percentages of those consumers who answered the question. The notation ‘-’ indicates there were too few responses to be meaningful and ‘NR’ indicates that no-one answered this question.

SECTION 4

METHODOLOGY

HOW THIS SURVEY IS CONDUCTED

Since the inception of the statewide consumer surveys in 1995, the State Division of Disability and Aging Services has taken steps to provide a forum for people receiving developmental services to express their own point of view while eliminating possible bias or influence. For this reason, the surveys have always been administered by an independently contracted team. Originally, this work was contracted to a team from the University of Vermont. Since 2003, survey administration and data entry has been coordinated by Rosemary Drabing, M.S.W. and Janet Bramley Ph.D. has been responsible for survey analysis and reporting. Survey responses remain confidential and personally identifying data are removed before the survey responses are analyzed.

The Vermont Consumer Survey is conducted statewide over a 3 year period, 2010 marking the third year of the fourth such 3-year cycle. Within each year, a sample of adults receiving developmental services is surveyed. This Section describes the methodology used to obtain and analyze information for the 2008 – 2010 Vermont Consumer Survey. The information in this Section covers:

- Participant Selection: How people are chosen to take part in the survey to obtain a fair representation of the adults receiving developmental services in the state of Vermont and their views in a variety of life satisfaction domains.
- The Survey Instruments: A brief description of the questionnaires used to obtain demographic and satisfaction information.
- Survey Administration: A description of how demographic information is collected and the participant interview procedure.
- Survey Analysis and Reporting: A description of the analytical procedures used to derive the findings presented in this report.

PARTICIPANT SELECTION

The selection of adults to participate in the consumer survey aims to be representative both within each agency and across the statewide population receiving developmental services in each year. Five agencies are chosen each year. The order in which agencies are visited has remained unchanged over the previous three survey cycles. On the basis of a re-examination of current statewide demographics, the order and thus ‘mix’ of agencies visited each year has been changed to better represent the current profile of consumers served statewide. In the spring of 2010, the independently contracted survey interviewers visited the following agencies: Health Care and Rehabilitation Services of Southeastern Vermont (HCRS), Lincoln Street Incorporated (LSI), Rutland Mental Health Services – Community Access Program (RMHS), Specialized Community Care (SCC) and United Counseling Service (UCS).

Participant selection is the first stage of the survey process. In the winter, a random sample based on agency size and regional representation is drawn from the list of people currently served. These are the potential survey participants for that year. Table 4.1 shows the percentage of individuals served by each agency who will be invited to participate and the order of agency visits in the 2008 – 2010 survey cycle.

The Demographic Survey is used to collect information about all participants. The agency then makes a determination as to which people can also participate in satisfaction interviews. While it is recognized that not all participants are able or willing to be interviewed, the aim is to interview 60% of participants.

THE SURVEY INSTRUMENTS

Two survey instruments are used: the Demographic Survey and the Consumer Interview. These instruments were developed and extensively field-tested for reliability by Susan Culbert, Ph.D., and Sara Burchard, Ph.D. during the early 1990s. The format and questions had been reviewed and approved by a variety of stakeholders including self-advocates, family members, service providers, and representatives from the State Division of Developmental Services, prior to the survey instruments’ first statewide use in 1995.

Since the first 3-year cycle of surveys, a number of questions have been changed or added to the original survey instruments. For the second cycle of surveys, questions addressing knowledge of services and self-determination were added to the Consumer Interview in response to consumer advocacy requests. It was at this time also that the State started submitting survey data to the National Core Indicators (NCI) project. This multi-state project provides an annual comparative ‘report card’ on services for adults receiving developmental services. For the 2004 – 2006 survey cycle, the Demographic Survey, in particular, was further enhanced. This was partly to include more on communication capabilities and services to inform the statewide communication initiative, and partly to align more closely with questions with the National Core Indicators (NCI) project to enable more cross state comparisons. This latest round of surveys starting in 2008 features changes based on input from a range of stakeholders; information on access and barriers to community activities has been added and a number of questions have been rephrased for easier understanding. As of 2008, Vermont ceased participation in the NCI project due to budget constraints.

The Demographic Survey is filled out by case managers at the participating agencies prior to the interviews with the people receiving services. The information gathered can be used in the first instance by the interviewers to inform and facilitate the interview process. It has also proved over the last decade to be a valuable resource for obtaining a comprehensive ongoing picture of the population of adults receiving developmental services here in Vermont. The Demographic Survey consists of sections covering general demographics, communication capabilities and services, medical and health information, behavioral challenges, residential characteristics, services, and self-/family management and self-determination. The information from the Demographic Survey is reported in section 3 of this Report.

The structured Consumer Interview consists of 160 questions designed to measure how satisfied people receiving developmental services are in a variety of life domains: how they feel about their residential living, work and/or community activities, community services, and activities. It also obtains information on other valued outcomes, such as social support, neighbors, leisure activities, degree of independence, opportunities for growth and change, self-advocacy, and self-determination. Each question on the survey has a high value of 2 (positive response) and a low of 0 (negative response). The values for ‘Not Applicable’, ‘Refused’ or ‘Unclear/unknown’ are excluded from the analysis. On average, the direct interviews will take between 30 and 35 minutes to complete. For people who have difficulty with verbal communication, there is an abbreviated version of the Consumer Interview covering the same satisfaction domains, in which picture cards (‘Happy’, ‘In-between’ and ‘Sad’) are used for respondents to indicate their answers. The information from the Consumer Interview is reported in section 2 of this Report.

Copies of the survey instruments may be requested from the Division of Disability and Aging Services.

SURVEY ADMINISTRATION

Rosemary Drabing, an independent contractor with extensive experience with the Vermont developmental service system, took over project coordination in 2003, the last year of the previous cycle of surveys. In each year, field interviewers are hired and trained to complete the consumer interviews. Typically, interviewers have included graduate students, teaching and human services professionals, and consumers of developmental services.

Once the participant pool has been selected (see page 54), the project coordinator meets with service coordinators at the participating agencies and distributes copies of the Demographic Survey to be filled out before the interviews. It is at this time that a determination will be made by the agencies as to which of the randomly selected adults can also participate in direct interviews. Arrangements are then made for the direct interviews to take place usually at agency offices.

Generally, the participants are interviewed alone at the agency offices to allow them to express their opinions freely. However, accommodations are made as necessary, for example, if the individual wants someone present or an interpreter is needed or the individual cannot get to the office. The interview questions are read by the interviewer and the answers are recorded on the questionnaire forms. Not all survey questions are applicable for every person, and not all people will answer all of the questions in their interviews. On a few occasions, it will be clear that the person has difficulty with the questions and cannot complete the interview. Should this happen, the interviewer may switch to the picture version of the survey, or the interview will be respectfully terminated and the responses will not be included in the survey analysis.

SURVEY ANALYSIS

All data entry and analysis is performed using standard SPSS™ statistical software (PASW Version 17) and the charts appearing in these reports are generated using Microsoft Excel™ to format output from the SPSS analysis.

On completion of the interview sessions, the completed Demographic Survey and Consumer Interview questionnaires are returned to the project coordinator for entry into an SPSS database. Each participant is identified by agency and a survey number; no personally identifying information is entered into this database. The database is then submitted to the Evaluator for analysis. Janet Bramley, the Evaluator for this project, has been connected with the Consumer Survey Project first as an interviewer and later as an evaluator since 1995.

The analysis of responses to the two survey instruments involves two stages. In the first instance, simple descriptive cross-tabulation statistics are used to generate data for the tables in Sections 2 (Interview responses) and Section 3 (Demographic Survey findings) of this Report.

The second stage involves grouping responses to the Consumer Survey into life satisfaction domains. Table 4.2 below indicates which questions were used for each of these domains. The valid responses to these questions are a high value of 2 (positive response) through a low value of 0 (negative response). The values for 'Not Applicable', 'Refused' or 'Unclear/unknown' are excluded from the analysis. For each domain the mean of the valid responses to the indicated questions is divided by 2 and multiplied by 100 to give a percentage satisfaction rate. These percentage rates are then further analyzed using Analysis of Variance (ANOVA) procedures to determine whether there were significant differences between different groups of people (Domain Satisfaction, page 6, and pages 12-13)

1. The Self Determination/Rights scale was added in 2004 and is based on questions added to the survey in response to feedback from advocates.
2. The Health Satisfaction scale from surveys prior to 2004 is no longer examined as those questions were removed from the survey in 2004. However, full demographic information on Healthcare and Lifestyle scale is shown in Tables 3.9 and 3.10.
3. Questions used for the Activities scale for the 2008-2010 survey cycle offer three response options instead of the two response options in previous surveys. For discussion of the impact of this change see page 12.
