

MAKING COMMUNICATION HAPPEN
WORLDWIDE

TUESDAY OCTOBER 26, 2010

BURLINGTON, VERMONT

Tracy Thresher

The making of the film was the most wonderful cultural experience of my life. I met people of various spiritual beliefs, tasted many different foods, traveled by different modes of transportation and had many opportunities to see once in a lifetime scenes of great beauty. I loved every minute of it.

I want people to understand the importance of communication. Everyone needs to spread the message of why the presuming of competence is so dearly important. I want people to know how important it is to have trained communication partners in our lives so we can make our voices heard.

We deserve the chance to make our own choices and contribute to the world. We have skills that add very good things to the world. Look deeper than our kooky behavior. Get to know our intelligent minds.

Panel Q&A

We flew long time in airplane more than twelve hours with fully awake Larry on the window looking for cold beer.

I can be funny too Larry.

Well my story is on the airplane I left my communication device on the airplane I was in a daze and thought I lost it forever but on the return trip master finder Harvey got it I will let him tell the rest.

No melt downs on planes flying is easy just in temples without shoes my worries left me while flying.

Well maisie very much feel like leading actors george Clooney and john wayne guess who is george well ok john malchovich.

Yes we will be going down under mate and to japan and finland and sri lanka again lets talk part two billy with queen gerry.

Lets type how about anyone that struggles with speech has typing made available to them with the time training equipment and open minded people getting their thoughts out understood and valued the one thing is presumption of competence.

Talk really loudly in obnoxiously gyrating on nerves voice no offense larry.
